Christopher Duarte

Weekly Update #8

The focus of this week was on overall application flow and implementing the category page for KnowMixer. Sample categories were created to visualize how the application would function. The work on the terms and definitions pages has started but will be completed in the following week. Overall, application should be working with sample data by the presentation date.